

MythBusters: What do you really know about Insurance?

Please join us on April 20th from 10:30 – 11:25 AM for a discussion on what the insurance industry has to offer. Students will hear from a diverse and accomplished group of speakers. Dr. Elizabeth Carter will moderate the virtual discussion.

Please click this URL to join.

<https://travelers.zoom.us/j/98502636506?pwd=TW1QSzNMTC9yMnRtTkUvcDFxMG5idz09>

Passcode: 008839

Webinar ID: 985 0263 6506

Elizabeth “Dr. E” Carter is an Insurance Finance and Performance Improvement Leader with extensive experience in financial analysis, performance improvement, relationship management, and talent development for corporate and volunteer organizations. Her unique mix of financial acumen and knowledge empowerment has provided opportunities to provide meaningful performance metrics that align with strategic goals.

Waswate Ayana

Waswate (“Wasi”) Ayana is a Product Development Director at Munich Reinsurance America. Operating at the intersection of data science, geoscience, technology, and actuarial science, Wasi leads the design of innovative solutions to help bridge insurance gaps created by climate change. Prior to this, Wasi spent 15 years working in various functions (underwriting, pricing, reserving, and risk management) for different insurance companies in Europe (Deloitte, Munich Re, ERGO) and Asia (Tokio Marine). Wasi received his BSc. Mathematics from the University of Texas at Austin and is a Fellow of the Casualty Actuarial Society.

Rodrigue Dijkeuchi

Rodrigue Dijkeuchi is an Actuary and Market/Product Specialist at RMS, A Moody’s Analytics Company. In his current role, he advises insurers and reinsurers on catastrophe modeling and exposure management solutions, including hurricane, wildfire, flood, terrorism, and climate change models. Prior to joining RMS, he served at Travelers Insurance as an Actuarial Leadership Development Program participant, where he completed several rotations in pricing, reserving and strategy & innovation roles. Rodrigue was born and raised in Yaoundé, Cameroon.

Alé Starr

Alé (short for Alexandra) is a Treaty Underwriter at Hartford Steam Boiler (HSB). Alé started her career at General Reinsurance and was there for 4+ years before she went into primary underwriting. She began her underwriting career at Osprey before moving to Atlantic Casualty, and is now in reinsurance underwriting with HSB. Alé is a graduate from UConn with a BA in Economics and earned her CPCU designation in June 2020, followed by an ARe designation in October 2020. Growing up in a bicultural household, Alé is first generation Chilean American. She is fluent in Spanish and worked with Latin clients at Gen Re and now at HSB.